

STOP
RACISM

1. Today South Africa is called a "Rainbow Nation" because of different people's languages and origins.

2. In 1948, the government created a system that legally separated white people and black people.

It was called "APARTHEID".

3. It was a form of racial discrimination

5. The Apartheid was abolished in 1994.

4. During the apartheid black and white people lived separately. Black people couldn't go to the same schools, hospitals, restaurants, libraries and took the same public transports.
